WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Sam Farr (D-Carmel) will host his annual "Academy Night" on May 4, an opportunity for students to learn about the nation's service academies and how the application process works.

"The country's service academies are a wonderful way to pick up a world-class education and provide valuable service to our country," Rep. Farr said. "You don't need to look any further than our own Naval Postgraduate School and Defense Language Institute to know the great work our armed forces are doing. I hope all students who are considering their college options will stop by and learn about what the academies have to offer."

The Academy Night will feature representatives of the U.S. Military Academy (West Point), the U.S. Naval Academy, the U.S. Air Force Academy, the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy and the U.S. Coast Guard Academy. They will answer questions on the academies' admissions process and students can learn how to obtain a Congressional Nomination from Rep. Farr.

To RSVP for this event, contact Julian Chacon at 831-429-1976.

TUESDAY, May 4

6 p.m. Service Academy Night

Rep. Farr will host representatives from the nation's service academies to answer questions about life at the academies and how to apply. To RSVP for this event, contact Julian Chacon at 831-429-1976.

Location: University Center, CSUMB, 4314 Sixth Ave., Seaside

# #