The National Environmental Scorecard is the nationally recognized grade for members of Congress on environmental, public health and energy issues

Washington, DC – Congressman Sam Farr (D-Carmel) earned a 100% score from The League of Conservations Voters' (LVC) 2010 National Environmental Scorecard. The 2010 Scorecard includes nine different votes on issues ranging from clean energy to public health protections to lands conservation.

"We have a responsibility to protect our environment and natural resources for future generations," said Congressman Sam Farr. "I am honored to be recognized by the LVC with a 100% conservation score, and proud of the votes I have taken to support the health of our families and environment. I look forward to continuing to support our environment, and supporting alternative sources of energy that put us our country on a healthy path to long term environmental sustainability.

For 40 years, the National Environmental Scorecard issued by LCV has been the nationally accepted yardstick used to rate members of Congress on environmental, public health and energy issues.
